For Chinese learners without previous learning experience

Speaking course

The writers adopt the approach of “combining the structure with the function” to write the textbook, presenting the daily situations in the most basic and common Chinese. It helps students rapidly master 301 basic conversational sentences and do substitution and extension exercises on this basis so as to be able to make simple communication with the Chinese people. It has altogether 40 lessons in two volumes, each lesson including sentences, conversations, substitution and extension, new words, pronunciation or grammar, exercises and other parts, encompassing nearly 30 communication items, about 800 new words and preliminary information about Chinese grammar. There are 8 review lessons in addition.

Conversational Chinese 301 was first published in 1990. Its revised edition, included in the series of "BLCU choice textbooks for learners overseas", was published in 1998. The third edition was published in 2005 and revised the following parts:

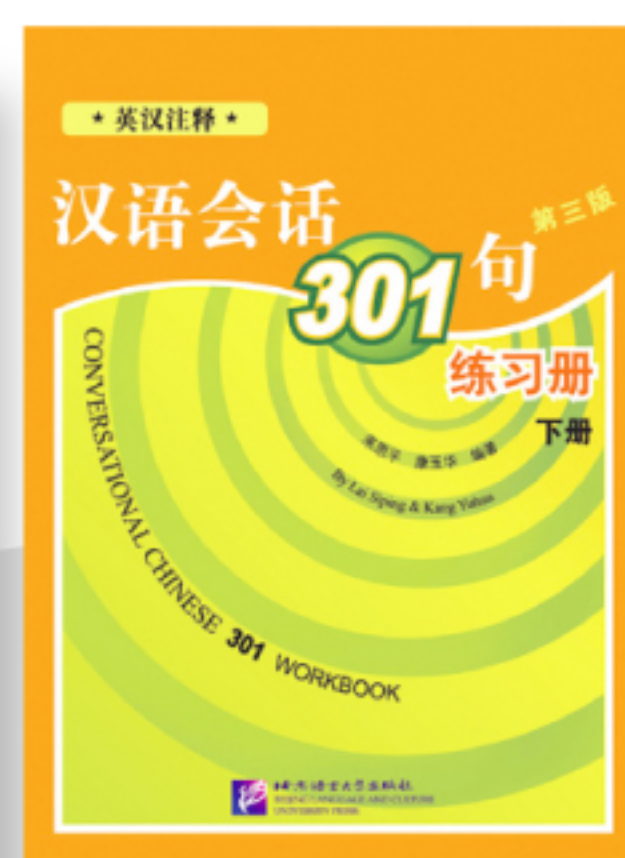

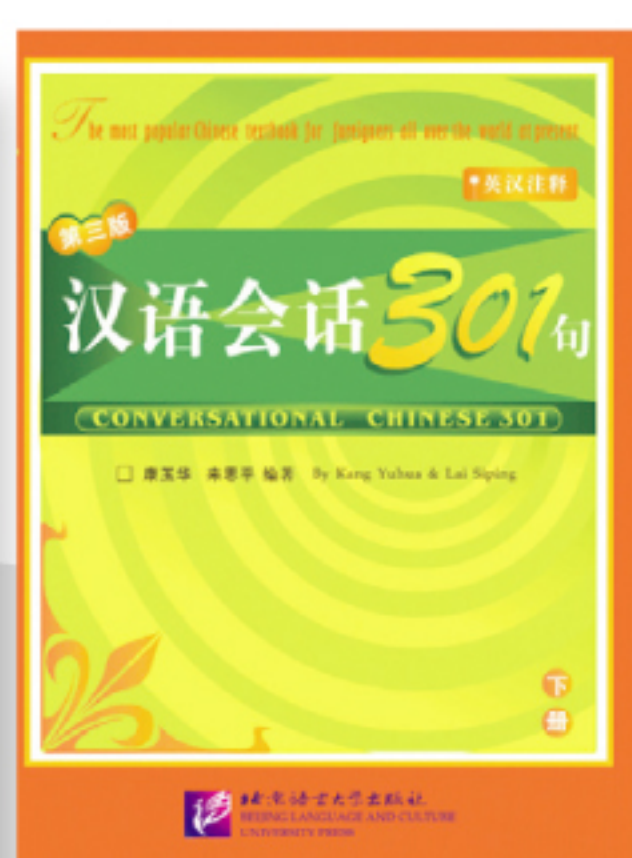

Firstly, it maintains the language points in the original version, but updates the contents that best reflect the contemporary social life;

Secondly, based on the new content, it arranges the language points more progressively and coherently to make it better;

Considering it is selected and used by more and more language schools abroad, the writers specifically wrote an “introduction” for readers’ reference.
